Steve Blehm is the best father that not only one, but three girls could ask for. Raising my sisters and me is no easy task and dad showed us what a man in our lives should represent. He is kind and caring and protective of those who are in need of it. He stands up for what he believes in, but also, is willing to have an open and honest conversation with those who may disagree with him. He is an incredible example of dedication and hard work; working tirelessly long hours and doing it well. He has shown us that the most important tools in life are communication and trust and without one of those things you can’t have the other and without either of them, a relationship, whether it be father/daughter, husband/wife, or just friends, will not last. This, of course, was most beautifully represented in the relationship that he had with his wife, our mama, and will forever be an example to my sisters and me. He is also pretty funny – yes daddy, you do actually make us laugh sometimes. Incredibly loyal and moral are just a few more traits to add to the list. He is a good man. Thank you, daddy, for being the first man of our lives, we could not have asked for a better one.

Most kindly,
Sarah Blehm
